ALASKA BOUNDARY

TREATY IS OFFICIALLY SIGNED

Compulsory Voting Is Dropped Out of Election Law.

(Bulletin Special Dispatch).

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—The premier announced that the treaty regarding the Alaska boundary had been signed, but made no statement of the awards.

The compulsory voting proposal was struck out of the election law amendments.

The balance of the railway subsidies were voted without serious opposition. The St. Mary's railway, to Cardston is aided for 32 miles.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY

Sir Wilfrid Announces the Awards—Boundary at Passes.

(Bulletin Special Dispatch).

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—The announcement of the Alaska boundary awards was made by the premier. The boundary at the passes remains as it is. No comments have been made as yet.

THE WEATHER

The weather was fine and warm yesterday throughout Manitoba and the Territories, and no frost to speak of occurred last night. A rapidly moving disturbance is this morning causing showery weather in Manitoba, but northwesterly winds which have already set in over Alberta, will soon spread east and the weather will be fair again. Fairly heavy frost will likely occur Thursday morning.

Queens.—F. R. Brown, Toronto; A. B. Summ, Spokane, Wash.; J. Carlson, Wardner, B. C.; T. Cummings, Lacombe; D. McKinnon, Fort Elgin.

LOCAL.

—W. Blatchford has taken a position on the Bulletin staff.

—The high wind last night blew down and broke the flag pole at the land office.

—The Clara Mathes company will present in the Reign of the Emperor, at the opera house this evening.

—A very heavy shower of rain fell last night but it was cleared off again and the streets are drying rapidly.

—Edmonton Local Carpenters Union No. 1325 will give an anniversary social in Robertson Hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 11th.

—It is said that the Calgary labor organizations will run Thomas Flett, conductor, for mayor, at the next municipal elections.

—Excavation work has commenced for the basement of the new Bank of Commerce building on Jasper avenue, west of J. T. Blowey's furniture establishment.

—The trial of Ernest Cashel for the murder of J. R. Bett, at Tail Creek, east of Lacombe, has been commenced in Calgary. Dr. Sharpe, of Lacombe, was the first witness called. P. J. Nolan is defending Cashel.

—A force of men and teams will be immediately put on our principal streets to grade and level them. They have been very rough of late owing to the excavations for the laying of sewer and water pipes.

—J. D. Maloney is in Edmonton today from Edson. He says that everything is thriving in that district. New settlers and settlers of the very best kind, all English speaking, are settling in that district.

—The new Alberta Hotel, the Chisholm, Sandison, Heimick blocks, and Revillon Fraser large brick warehouse are being rapidly pushed through to completion. These large buildings all have very imposing appearances.

—A work train is working on the E. Y. & P. railway between Edmonton and Strathcona getting the road in shape. The gravel pit will soon be reached with the rails when another work train will be put on the line and proper ballast will be laid.

—On the evening of October 20th the Strathcona checker club had its first fall meeting at the home of Judge Tipton, who is president of the club. The genial judge made some appropriate remarks to the club, after which play proceeded among the members. The judge and Mrs. Tipton served refreshments after which the members took their departure; each declaring he had been highly entertained. Mr. E. J. Howler, of Michigan, was present as a visitor.

—Visitors in Edmonton from the coast say that British Columbia scarcely knows where she is at in the political situation. It is universally conceded that had it been a straight party fight the Liberals would have swept the province. The presence of numerous labor candidates detracted largely from the Liberal vote with the result that the Conservative candidate won at it elected. As it is, the Socialists hold the balance of power and represent the Conservative majority. This is said to be a very unstable factor and cannot be depended on. Prominent Liberals are assured of another provincial election within a year.

ONLY A SOLDIER BOY

The Clara Mathes Company played to a packed house last night judging from the amount of applause received this company is one of the best of its kind that has come to Edmonton for a long time. The play put on was "Only a Soldier Boy," and there was not a weak point in the whole performance. Clara Mathes as Cherry Pitt was very good and kept the audience in the best of humor. Sam Glee and Dick Ellsworth were perhaps the two favorite characters of the evening. Ellsworth, as the bluff soldier who carried his men to victory at the Battle of the Bluffs, was especially liked. The acting of his sweetheart, Rose Darling, was less successful. Luke Riley, the Irishman was very funny, and kept the audience in roars of laughter. Savannah Darling acted her part well as did also her companion in crime, Sydney Kimball, the Wall street purveyor. Simon Isenbaum, the Jew, "strictly" a rascal, brought down the house in exceedingly clever and true to life acting.

The specialties were on the whole very much enjoyed. Some of the audience would perhaps have been better pleased had some of the suggestive parts of a couple of the songs been omitted. The illustrated songs were very much enjoyed.

Tonight the company will put on "In the Reign of the Emperor."

PERSONAL

T. A. Gregg is spending a few days in Edmonton.

The Misses Guertin, of Morinville, visited Edmonton yesterday.

—A full attendance of the fire brigade is called for Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the fire hall.

Will Cregan left for Lacombe this morning to open the Brackman-Ker elevator there for the season.

Mr. D. McKinnon, of Port Elgin, Ont., is spending a couple of weeks in Edmonton on a visit to friends.

Miss Nettie Asher, who has been in C. W. Mather's photograph gallery for some time, left for her home in Fort Saskatchewan today.

BRIGADE CALLED OUT

What might have developed into a big fire commenced last night on the river bank near D. R. Fraser and Company's mills. A large amount of slabs as well as a considerable quantity of lighter rubbish, had been dumped over the bank at this place, and it is said that parties who were tenting nearby had thrown some of their camp fire over the bank onto the waste pile. It was not long before the whole mass was on fire and on account of its close proximity to the mills and the danger from falling sparks, the alarm was rung into the fire hall. This was about 9:45 p.m. Just at this time too, rain, which had been threatening for some time fell in torrents. The brigade was at the fire in a very short time, and it was soon extinguished.

There was practically no loss, but it was a very close call for the mills.

STRATHCONA CHECKER CLUB CHALLENGES

Bulletin Correspondence.

Saturday was chiefly occupied by a discussion on Charlton's bill to provide for compulsory voting. The plan was made that at present a form of improper persuasion of voters which prevailed was the offer of inducements to remain away from the polls. This would be avoided by the compulsory clauses of the bill. The proposition was strongly opposed by a number of members, chiefly on the Liberal side, while its support came chiefly from the opposition side. Besides the compulsory clause there were other clauses which aroused a great deal of hostile criticism, and after the greater part of the day had been occupied in fruitless discussion, the premier announced that the bill would stand over for reconsideration by its promoters and further consideration by the House. From the course of the debate it is not likely that an effort will be made to push the compulsory features of the bill. The other features are of lesser moment. The bill was under the management of Mr. Charlton and he is recognized as the cause of its introduction, but the responsibility was divided by its having been referred to a special committee which, therefore, became responsible with the promoter for the provisions contained. The fact that it was being brought forward on the last day of a seven months session rendered it impossible that it could receive the consideration which such an important change in the very foundation of our system of government would require.

The remainder of Saturday was taken up in the placing of supplementary estimates which went through without serious opposition. The greater part of Monday was occupied in the discussion of the publication of the census bureau. Blain, of Peel, moved a resolution of "condemnation as follows:

"That the expenditure in connection with the taking of the census for the year 1881 was $571,550 for a population of 4,324,811; that the expenditure in connection with the taking of the census for the year 1891 was $549,991 for a population of 4,833,239; that the expenditure in connection with the taking of the census for the year 1901 is $1,198,269 for a population of 5,371,315, and the accounts for the census year, 1901, have not all been paid. That in the opinion of this house the said expenditure for the year 1901 is excessive and extravagant."

The census had already been a subject of discussion in the House and had been fully thrashed out. It was thought, however, by the opposition that the operations of the bureau were an easy mark for criticism, especially of such a nature as that contained in the resolution. It will be observed that the resolution does not criticize the actual work done or the rate of pay for that work, but merely offers a comparison between the cost of the last census and the two previous ones. This gave the minister of agriculture the opportunity which he had not had in the former discussion of making a close comparison between the work done by himself and his predecessor. He admitted at once that the cost of the present census was much greater than that of the preceding one, and gave the reasons for it. They were, (1) increase in cost of labor; (2) fuller details of information; (3) information covering the whole country; (4) the present census was more complete. He gave more accurate information. He gave evidence to show that the previous census was neither complete nor reliable, and, therefore, to a considerable extent of no value at all. The purpose of a census is accuracy, and if a purpose is to be taken, the expense necessary to secure accuracy is justified, whatever it may be, if within reason. As instances of the incompleteness of the previous census, he showed that the previous census, which cost $2,000 the fisheries returns, were found to be of no value whatever, and were entirely set aside by the officers completely the figures of that census. In the present census the fisheries returns cost $14,000, but they were complete and accurate and would always be available for purposes of official use. In the previous census of Quebec the land is measured by arpent and not by acre. The arpent is somewhat less than the acre, but instead of the area in arpents being calculated into acres in the returns of '91, arpents were set down as acres, thereby reducing very greatly the work of calculation and rendering the returns absolutely misleading. The same occurred in the case of the measure of grain. The bushel is not the standard, but a measure somewhat larger than a bushel. This again was set down in the tables as bushels, again saving labor, but again being absolutely incorrect, and, therefore, misleading as a consequence. He showed that large areas of Ontario, Quebec, the Northwest Territories, British Columbia, and the Yukon were only estimated in the census of 1891, but were actually enumerated in the census of 1901. As the work of taking the census in these districts was the most expensive of any, the saving by not actually enumerating in 1891, was naturally very great, and again the returns were inaccurate and misleading as a consequence. The minister went over a number of instances of this kind, comparing the work done at the two census periods to such disadvantage to that of 1891, that it soon became evident that Mr. Blain and the opposition generally, were sorry that they spoke. The minister went on to show that in 1891 payments were made entirely contrary to the rules laid down. The debate was continued until a late hour in the evening and the resolution was defeated by 69 to 35.

VEGETABLE AND FLOWER SEEDS

It should be unnecessary to urge upon the growers of garden crops the importance of using thoroughly reliable seed, or to defend the practice of testing seeds before sowing them. Many gardeners have suffered heavy loss through the purchase of inferior or old seed and almost all who have used the seeds of flowers and vegetables have had occasion, at one time or another, to lament the use of seed of unknown quality. Genuine seed of germinating capacity is, however, only one essential to a successful crop, and to depreciate the importance of good gardeners would be entirely wrong. Since a good start is always important it would seem that to devote more attention to securing satisfactory seed would amply repay the majority of gardeners.

To the horticulturist, to a greater extent than to the agriculturist, is genuine reliable seed important. With the seeds of many farm crops their actual value can be determined several months before planting, because the question of variety does not enter to the same extent as in garden crops. With the garden crops the question of variety is of paramount importance and a disappointment in that regard may mean, practically, the loss of a season's crop. If the difference be a late maturing variety for an early one or vice versa. It is therefore important that growers should be competent and reliable.

For many years all the seeds used in this country were European grown, although as early as 1875 some attention was given to their growth in the United States. In that country the trade grew steadily until about 1890, when, owing to the interruption in trade due to the civil war, people began to look for a home supply and home production was greatly stimulated as a result. The increased demand encouraged growers to produce reliable seeds and kinds suited to all conditions of growth. A fair trial of home grown seeds satisfactory as imported stocks, and in some cases gave better results. In 1879 there was estimated to be 7,900 acres devoted to the production of garden seeds, but at that time the California seed trade was but beginning and since then has grown to enormous proportions. The vegetables seeds most grown in California are onion, lettuce, carrot, the look, kale, parsley and parsnip. The flower seeds, sweet peas, nasturtiums, verbena and aster. Cabbage and cauliflower seed is grown in the State of Washington, and a good quality is grown on Long Island. Many other kinds of flower and vegetable seeds are grown in various districts, but, as a rule, not in sufficient quantity to affect the trade. There is still, and will continue to be, large quantities of nearly all kinds of seed imported from Europe where labor is not so great an item of expense as in America.

Much of the work in connection with the growing has to be done by hand so that labor is an important consideration. The system of roguing practiced by all reliable growers is necessary in order to maintain the type, and consists of removing by hand all plants that deviate from the required standard. Cultivating, harvesting, threshing and cleaning are largely hand operations.

The labor involved is a serious objection to the homegrowing of seed which is practised by some gardeners. Very frequently, too, the quantity of seed produced is inferior to that grown by professionals, unless proper precautions are taken. The greatest dangers encountered are the crossing of varieties and deterioration of stock. To obviate the first difficulty small growers will find it necessary to grow only one variety of any one species, to overcome the second, constant care in selection will be required. Only those plants which are vigorous and approach the ideal conformation for that variety should be allowed to ripen their seed. Vigor of growth and productivity in individual plants are qualities that are transmitted from one generation of plants to the next, so that it is unwise to allow any but the most desirable plants to mature. Turnips or radishes that are not suitable for table use are much less suitable for seed production. Not all the seed of even the best plants should be sown as there are invariably present small and shriveled seeds, and only the large plump seeds should be used. By following this system of selection a gardener may not only maintain but constantly improve a variety, but if he is not willing to exercise such care he would do much better to purchase his seed from a reliable seedsmen.

SIR HECTOR VINDICATED

The following report has been made by the commission appointed to inquire into the circumstances affecting the death of the late Sir Hector Macdonald:

"In reference to the grave charges made against the late Sir Hector Macdonald, we the appointed commissioners, individually and collectively declare on oath, that after careful, minute and exhaustive inquiry and investigation of the whole of the circumstances and facts connected with the sudden and unexpected death of the late Sir Hector Macdonald, unanimously and unmistakably find absolutely no reason or cause whatsoever which would create feelings such as would determine suicide in preference to conviction of any crime affecting the moral and irreproachable character of so brave, so fearless, so glorious, and unparalleled a hero, and we firmly believe the cause which gave rise to the inhuman and cruel suggestions of crime were prompted through vulgar feelings of spite and jealousy in his rising to such a high rank of distinction in the British army, and while we have taken the most reliable and trustworthy evidences from every accessible and possible source, we have without hesitation come to the conclusion that there is not visible the slightest particle of truth in the foundation of any crime, and we find the late Sir Hector Macdonald cruelly assassinated by vile and slandering tongues. While honorably acquitting the late Sir Hector Macdonald of any charge whatever, we cannot but deplore the sad circumstances of the case that have fallen so disastrously on one whom we have found innocent of any crime attributed to him."

VEGREVILLE

Harvest work is late this year on account of so much wet weather. Binding is all done at last. Some are stacking and some are going to thresh from the stack.

Mr. Dennis has his threshers started. The grain is turning out well and is in good condition.

The fair is over and was a great success for the first in such a new country.

Mr. Tetto is building a good frame house and expects to have it finished in about two weeks. Log houses will soon be a thing of the past in this settlement.

The new Presbyterian minister has arrived and preached his first sermon in the schoolhouse on Sunday evening. Mr. Jas. Still, who came here to visit his brother some time ago, has returned to his home in Oregon. October 19th.

PLAIN WORDS

The Canadian manufacturers' in their trip through western Canada were entertained at Regina. G. W. Brown, M. L. A., delivered an impressive speech or rather address to the manufacturers, part of which as reported by the Leader, is as follows:

"What are the manufacturers doing? They have made the mistake of not becoming acquainted with the Canadian industry was, he believed, as intelligent as any other and second to none but it was making a mistake. He had come to this country 22 years ago and in the early days when there was a crop failure it was blamed on the soil or on the climatic conditions but now it had been fully demonstrated that the fault was that they did not understand the soil. They had to learn how to farm it and when they did success attended them. The Americans who were coming in understood the soil and climate probably as well, if not better, than we do ourselves. The American manufacturers understand western conditions as you do not, said Mr. Brown. He has become acquainted with the needs and requirements of the west by years of study and experience. And if you want to do the business here you will find that you have got to learn how to do business in this country as we had to learn. You will find what the farmers found, that Americans understood the conditions here and if you would succeed you must learn them and meet them on their own ground. As an example: Nine years ago every binder in the Regina district was a Massey-Harris; every threshing outfit was of a Canadian make, principally Sawyer-Massey, and the Massey-Harris Company has more than any other company, stood by this country. There may have been some Sawyer-Massey outfits sold in Regina this year, but if so I have not seen them, while all you have to do is to go out on the street to see dozens of American machines. These machines are being bought, not because of any pro-American feeling, or because they are cheaper, but because they are the class of article we require. If a break should occur in a Canadian machine it is often necessary to send to Winnipeg for repairs and lose several days, and every day a threshing outfit stands idle means the loss of $100. A man will pay $500 more for a machine, repairs for which he can secure on the spot, for one or two hours will pay for the extra cost. I say without danger of contradiction that American firms doing business in Regina today, carry ten times the amount of repairs that Canadian firms do. Five years ago the duty collected at the Regina customs house was $18,000 or $20,000, paid almost exclusively on goods from the United States and Britain which did not enter into competition with Canadian made articles. Today the duty collected here amounts to $180,000 a year, paid largely on goods which enter into active competition with and displace Canadian goods.

Protection won't remedy this state of affairs. Canadians will give goods of Canadian make the preference every time. It may be that Canadian made goods are equal and in some cases superior in quality to foreign goods. I believe they are, but that is not sufficient to hold this market. The manufacturers of England are laughed at for insisting that the goods they make are the best and their customers must buy them whether they like them or not. Canadian manufacturers are adopting the same method. It is not good articles alone, but the right class of articles that you must make to hold the western market. Goods which meet our requirements are the goods that will be bought whether they are the very best or not. Again you must use energy in handling your goods. Protection will not protect under such circumstances as I have outlined. In a broad sense I am more of a protectionist than ever, but I am not a protectionist from fear, but a standpoint of dollars and cents, but for the purpose of building up a strong, united and self-sustaining Canada. You have issued a pamphlet which may appeal to the farmers of Ontario or the miners of British Columbia, but it does not appeal to us. The price of our wheat is fixed by the Liverpool price. If we had no ambition to do more than supply a market of 6,000,000 people, we can do that now. But if we are to endeavor to supply the foreign markets it is worse than useless to spend the hundreds of millions of dollars to improve our canals, roads and shipping facilities and to build new railways if you are going to increase the cost of producing our goods for export. The one will destroy the advantage gained by the other, provided there is no use to us at all. But I realize that in order to build up this I realize that the men of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, the Territories and British Columbia have certain obligations to assume. We have certain obligations to assume. In the west would be better off without the west would be better off without our share with the rest. I say however, that the industry that cannot live on Canadian soil with the protection it has today, is going to be in a position to compete with American goods.

Mr. Brown urged on the manufacturers the necessity of using energy and up-to-date business in the west. You may say, said Mr. Brown, that it is a hardship that you should have to carry this country on your shoulders

LEAD TO EDMONTON

EDMONTON is the centre of attraction of the North-West Territories today. No place in the west occupies such an unique and enviable position. It being the centre of the largest and richest agricultural and mixed farming district in Canada.

The future coal supply depot for the Territories, hence the future manufacturing metropolis of the country. The coming great railway centre of the west. The gateway to the great agricultural, fur and timber country to the north and the distributing point for an area exceeding 900,000 square miles. The extent and far reaching trade of Edmonton is a source of wonderment and surprise to visitors but is only an indication of what it is going to become. Edmonton is to-day one of the greatest distributing points of the world, forwarding goods over an area six times the size of the British Isles.
